St. Alphonsus Liguori Feast Day, August 1st

"Acquire the habit of speaking to God as if you were alone with Him, familiarly and with confidence and love, as to the dearest and most loving of friends. Speak to Him often of your business, your plans, your troubles, your fears - of everything that concerns you. Converse with Him confidently and frankly; for God is not wont to speak to a soul that does not speak to Him."

-St. Alphonsus Liguori

“Family Worship: How to Celebrate Sunday Liturgy Together”

In our busy world, it’s easy for family members to go in different directions during the week—school, work, errands, responsibilities. But Sunday offers us a beautiful opportunity to reconnect, not just with one another, but with God, through the celebration of the Holy Eucharist. Attending Sunday Mass as a family is more than a religious obligation—it’s a sacred tradition that strengthens both faith and family bonds.

The Family as a Domestic Church

The Church teaches that the family is the “domestic Church,” the first place where faith is taught, lived, and celebrated. When families pray together, worship together, and reflect on God’s Word together, they build a foundation that supports spiritual growth for each member—from young children to grandparents.

Preparing Together

Celebrating Sunday liturgy as a family begins before you even step into the church. On Saturday evening or Sunday morning, prepare your hearts. Dress appropriately, remind your children why you’re going to Mass, and perhaps read the Sunday Gospel ahead of time. This creates anticipation and purpose. It’s not just about going through the motions—it’s about going to meet Jesus as a family.

Participating Together

During Mass, sit together and be fully present. Teach your children to respond to the prayers, sing with the assembly, and listen attentively to the readings. Let them see your reverence and devotion—it leaves a lasting impression. Even if the little ones get restless at times, your consistency will plant seeds of faith that will grow with time.

Parents and guardians have a unique role during the liturgy. You are the first catechists—by your example, you teach your children the importance of worship. Encourage them to observe, to ask questions afterward, and to understand what they saw and heard.

Reflecting After Mass

The conversation doesn’t have to end when Mass does. On the drive home or during lunch, talk about the Gospel reading or the priest’s homily. Ask questions like, What part of Mass did you like best? What did you learn today? How can we live this message as a family this week? These conversations help children internalize the faith and see how it connects to everyday life.

Praying at Home

Sunday worship can inspire the rest of your week. Create small prayer routines at home—grace before meals, evening prayers, or reading the daily Gospel together. Celebrate saints’ feast days or light a candle and say a prayer together on special occasions. These simple moments help make God a real and living presence in your home.

A Lifelong Gift

When families worship together, they grow closer not only to God but to each other. Children who grow up celebrating Mass as a family are more likely to remain connected to their faith as they grow older. It teaches them that faith isn’t just personal—it’s something shared, something lived out in community, starting at home.

Let us make Sunday more than just a routine. Let it be a sacred time that renews our relationship with God and with one another. As a family, let’s come to the altar—and leave empowered to love more deeply, serve more generously, and live more faithfully every day.

Saint Francis Xavier, pray for us!
